

ASID Clinical Research Spring Meeting

28-29 October 2017, Doherty Auditorium, Melbourne

The ASID Clinical Research Network Spring Meeting will take place over two days and we encourage anyone with an interest in clinical trials and research to attend.

Draft Program

Saturday 28 October am: CRN Steering Committee meeting

Saturday 28 October pm: Registrars Education session

Sunday 29 October am: Methodology broad interest topics; pitching trials; and discussion on future clinical trials.

Sunday 29 October pm: updates on existing studies supported by the Clinical Research Network.

The CRN Steering Committee gratefully acknowledges the support of the Doherty Institute.

About the CRN

The ASID Clinical Research Network was formed in 2009 by a group of infectious diseases physicians interested in facilitating high quality, multi-centre, investigator-initiated studies. The network consists of highly experienced clinicians and researchers across Australia and New Zealand who are dedicated to improving patient care through the advancement of infectious diseases research. Read more about CRN supported clinical trials here.

Registration

There is a small registration fee of $30 for ASID members and $50 for non-members to cover catering.

Register at this link

<https://www.asid.net.au/events/event/clinical-research-network-spring-meeting>